

The Yukon Child Benefit Financial Pathway

To access the Yukon Child Benefit, you must register your child for the Canada Child Benefit. Through this, as a resident of the Yukon, you will receive additional provincial payments to your monthly Canada Child Benefit.

The income support pathway on accessing the Canada Child Benefit can be accessed here.

Information on the Yukon Child Benefit can be accessed on the Canada Revenue Agency's

The Canada Child Benefit (CCB) is a tax-free monthly payment to help eligible families with the cost of raising children under 18 years of age.

The Canada Child Benefit also includes additional funding for those whose children live with a disability (under the Child Disability Benefit) and other related provincial and territorial programs.

The Child Disability Benefit is additional funds that are included in the Canada Child Benefit to support families with children living with disabilities. To access the Child Disability Benefit, the family must apply and be eligible for the Canada Child Benefit and the Disability Tax Credit (for the child).

The Yukon Child Benefit is for residents of the Yukon and is administered by the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA). This is a non-taxable amount paid to help low- and modest-income families provide for their children. It is combined with the CCB to provide a single monthly payment.

The amount that one can receive is highly dependent on the parent(s) annual net income, provincial/territorial location and the number of children for the individual making the benefit claim. To help calculate the possible Child and Family Federal and Provincial Benefits, please refer to the CRA website here.

Calculate your Benefit: To estimate the funds you may receive (both federal and provincial), you can use the Canadian government online Child and Family Benefits Calculator.